

The Phenomenological Researcher: A Summer School and Conference

Institute for Lifecourse Development
University of Greenwich; June 2024

UNIVERSITY OF GREENWICH

Are you a phenomenological researcher with an interest in health and social care? Are you curious about hermeneutic phenomenology?

Then save the date for two amazing in-person events in the Summer of 2024 featuring leading researchers at the University of Greenwich, London.

Thinking about thinking.

A two-and-a-half-day Summer School where you will learn about doing phenomenological research, meet inspiring researchers and network with your peers. Monday 24th to Thursday 27th June 2024.

The price of this summer school is £750.

Authentic Care in Health and Social Care, and Education

A conference for those working in, aspiring to work in or curious about hermeneutic phenomenology. This event is for any qualitative researcher wishing to engage with experience researchers and practitioners in the field and to network with others working in hermeneutic phenomenological theory and practice. 28th June 2024.

The price of this conference is £250.

We are delighted to be working with UCLAN, DCU and AUT to bring this exciting event to you.

If you are interested, please register your interest for the event!

Two Phenomenology events at the UOG in June 2024 - Save the Date Tickets, London | Eventbrite.

Hear from our participants

"It was great to connect with other scholars and researchers. Knowing that I am not alone in doing phenomenological research. It was great to see someone with same challenges. The teachers/speakers were superb!"

"I enjoyed the input from the experts in the field - the camaraderie between them was lovely to see and encouraged a collegiate environment between us all."

Register your interest today!

Institute for Lifecourse Development

E-mail: ILD@greenwich.ac.uk

Website: ILD | The Institute for Lifecourse
Development | University of Greenwich