Comparative Literature and Culture

COURSE OPTIONS FOR VISITING STUDENTS

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT

Comparative Literature and Culture (CLC) offers the rare opportunity to explore literature, film, philosophy and art from the twenty-first century to ancient Greece and from Latin America to Europe, opening up critical perspectives, breaking down geographic and conceptual barriers and honing analytical and communications skills. We are situated in the vibrant School of Modern Languages, Literatures and Cultures, but there is no requirement to have studied, or to study, a foreign language. We are a friendly, inclusive community, committed to providing students access to world-class research-based academic teaching

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

You are not required to have studied, or to study, a foreign language, but should have studied at least one essay-based subject previously (e.g. English, History). Typically, students may currently be studying or have studied subjects such as English, Philosophy, Psychology, Theatre Studies or Media Studies.

Term 1 = Autumn Term

Term 2 = Spring Term
