

Information Literacy Teaching Framework

We are bombarded with information from every direction so it is imperative that we equip students with the information literacy skills to effectively search, evaluate and reference the information they encounter. These skills go beyond enabling students to reach their potential at Royal Holloway, impacting their career choices and employability. Employers demand that graduates have transferable skills and are confident independent learners. Information literacy skills enable students to approach assignments with confidence and enter the job market with skills integral to their ongoing success. Specialist library staff can equip students with these skills by delivering teaching tailored to their specific needs.
