Flexible Education 2020: New Approaches to Learning and Teaching

Royal Holloway Teaching and Learning Symposium 2020

2 June 2020

Draft schedule of meetings

Session 1

9.30am  Prof James Knowles, Senior Vice-Principal (Education)
Flexible Education 2020: our approach

10.00am  Prof Alejandro (Ale) Armellini, Dean of Learning and Teaching, University of Northampton
Flattening one curve while raising another: Active Blended Learning and Active Distance Learning in higher education

Session 2

11.30am  Dr Tom Wainwright and Dr Lucy Gill-Simmen, School of Business and Management
Planning and designing blended learning – School of Business and Management’s approach

11.50am  Dr James McEvoy, School of Biological Sciences
Flipped learning: Shoot first, ask questions later

12.10pm  Mr Justin O’Brien, School of Business and Management
Being creative with on-line learning

Session 3

2pm  Dr David Lefevre, Director of the Edtech Lab, Imperial College London; and helped launch Insendi focusing on on-line learning platforms.
COVID-19 as a catalyst for change: Ensuring sustainable innovation in digital education

Session 4

3.30pm  Michael Johnson and Melissa Phillips, IT-Services
Enabling Technology for Flexible Delivery

3.50pm  Kate Roberts, VP-Education, Royal Holloway Students’ Union
Expecting the Unexpected: What do students need from a flexible education?

4.10pm  Prof James Knowles, Senior Vice-Principal (Education)
Flexible Education 2020: our approach